Kenneth PHANG

Senior Lecturer & Consultant, Software Systems Practice

✉   isskpty@nus.edu.sg

Profile

Kenneth is with the Stackup Tech Talent Practice for NUS-ISS. His present duties incorporate growing course materials and teaching startup program for software engineering, software design, web, mobile technologies, blockchain and versatile innovation, as well as DevOps Engineering and Automation and RESTful API Design.

Before joining NUS-ISS, Kenneth works for Singapore Exchange, Crimsonlogic and Calypso where his essential obligations incorporate software architecture, engineering and designing actualizing a robust framework for the enterprise systems. During his tenure in Singapore Exchange Kenneth was part of the derivative clearing team and successfully implemented all the Keystone project. In the government industry, Kenneth and his team design and applied a dynamic web form authoring and engine for the Singapore LicenceOne platform.

Kenneth has over 17 years of working background and designing, implementing and maintaining undertaking banking and government enterprise software system.

Educational Qualifications/Professional Certifications

- Bachelor of Science (Computing), Second Class Honours, Oxford Brookes University

What I Teach

STACKUP - STARTUP TECH TALENT DEVELOPMENT

RESTful API Design

SOFTWARE SYSTEMS

DevOps Engineering and Automation

STACKUP - STARTUP TECH TALENT DEVELOPMENT

Automating Infrastructure Provisioning and Configuration

SOFTWARE SYSTEMS

DevSecOps Engineering and Automation

SOFTWARE SYSTEMS

DevSecOps Engineering and Automation - Variant

◀ Go Back to Our Team

NUS-ISS / About Us / Staff